Andrew Bernstein is the founder of Resilience 101, a provocative training program that teaches people a completely new way to understand and eliminate stress. After facing a series of unexpected life challenges at a young age, Bernstein spent his 20s and early 30s studying self-help on his own. A New Yorker trained in critical thinking at Johns Hopkins, he felt that traditional approaches to self-help were either too "New Agey" or too clinical. He also discovered that our traditional understanding of stress was based on a fundamental misconception. Integrating his experiences with many different tools such as cognitive therapy and a technique called The Work of Byron Katie, Bernstein created a new process that quickly helped even skeptical participants have profound breakthroughs. He was featured in Oprah's O magazine, then turned his sights on the corporate world.

Bernstein has now taught the dynamics of real resilience at Merrill Lynch, Morgan Stanley, Viacom, Genentech and other leading companies committed to employee well being and productivity. He also shares his program pro bono at non-profits like Phoenix House, the Hole in the Wall Gang camp and City Year. Bernstein speaks not as a therapist or guru, but as someone who experienced challenges in life and has created an intelligent and effective way to truly resolve them. He lives in New York City and is currently at work on a book about the real nature of stress and resilience.

Mount Sinai School of Medicine
One Gustave L. Levy Place
New York, NY 10029 USA
T : 212.241.1782
patricia.bloom@mssm.edu

Patricia A. Bloom, MD is an associate clinical professor of geriatrics and internal medicine at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York. She is the immediate past vice chair for clinical affairs of the Brookdale Department of Geriatrics and Adult Development, and recently completed a year-long sabbatical, studying complementary therapies and healthy aging. She has been involved in geriatric patient care, education and research for over 25 years.

She graduated from the University of Minnesota Medical School in 1975, then moved to the Bronx, New York, where she trained in internal medicine/social medicine with her husband, Dr. Harrison Bloom, at Montefiore Medical Center. She joined the faculty of the Department of Medicine at Montefiore and Albert Einstein College of Medicine in 1978. In 1984, she was instrumental in helping to establish a new Division of Geriatric Medicine at Montefiore and Albert Einstein, and developed the curriculum in geriatric medicine for the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. In 1989, she joined Dr. Harrison Bloom, the chief of Geriatric Medicine, at St. Luke's/Roosevelt, as director of education for the division. She became chief of the division in 1996. She was associate chair of Medicine at St. Luke's/Roosevelt from 1996 to 2000. In 2002, she joined the faculty at Mt. Sinai as vice chair in the Department of Geriatrics.

The Hon. Michael R. Bloomberg

Mayor of New York
City Hall
New York, NY 10007 USA
T : 212.639.9675
www.nyc.gov/mayor

Michael R. Bloomberg is the 108th Mayor of New York City. Mayor Bloomberg's thirst for information and fascination with technology was evident at an early age, and led him to Johns Hopkins University, where he parked cars and took out loans to finance his education. After his college graduation, he gained an MBA from Harvard and worked on Wall Street for Salomon Brothers.

He quickly advanced through the ranks and became a partner in 1972. He was fired in 1981 after another company acquired Salomon. Mr. Bloomberg used his stake from the Salomon sale to start his own company, an endeavor that would revolutionize the way that Wall Street does business. He created a financial information computer that would collect and analyze different combinations of past and present securities data and deliver it immediately to the user.

In 1982, Bloomberg L.P. sold 20 subscriptions to its service; 20 years later, Bloomberg LP has over 165,000 subscribers worldwide. As the business proved its viability, the company branched out and in 1990 entered the media business, launching a news service, and then radio, television, Internet and publishing operations.

As the company enjoyed tremendous growth, he dedicated more of his time and energy to philanthropy and civic affairs. His desire to improve education, advance medical research and increase access to the arts, has provided the motivation for much of his philanthropy.

Ms. Curry reported live from ground zero in the first two weeks after 9-11. When the United States bombed Al Qaeda targets in Afghanistan in November 2001, she reported extensively from the USS Theodore Roosevelt in the Arabian Sea, and landed the first exclusive interview with military commander General Tommy Franks. She reported from Baghdad in the weeks leading up to the war in Iraq, and then from the USS Constellation as the war began, interviewing fighter pilots who flew the first wave of bombing runs over Iraq. She also filed reports from inside Iraq, from Qatar, and Kuwait during the first weeks of the war.

Ms. Curry has distinguished herself in humanitarian reporting. She was the first network news anchor to report from inside the tsunami zone in southeast Asia, filing live and taped reports from Sri Lanka for Dateline, Today and NBC Nightly News. She was also the first network news anchor to report on the humanitarian refugee crisis caused by the genocide in Kosovo, filing live and taped reports from Albania and Macedonia.

Jamie Dimon became chief executive officer of JPMorgan Chase & Co. in January 2006. In addition, Mr. Dimon is president of the company, a title he assumed upon the company's merger with Bank One Corporation in July 2004. As chairman and chief executive officer of Bank One, Mr. Dimon engineered a dramatic turnaround at the company — taking the bank from a half-billion-dollar loss in 2000 to record earnings of US$3.5 billion in 2003.

Mr. Dimon began his professional career at American Express Company. He then became a key member of the team that launched and defined the strategy for Commercial Credit Company, serving as chief financial officer, executive vice president and president. In 1987, it acquired and changed its name to Primerica Corporation, which in 1993 acquired The Travelers Corporation and was renamed Travelers Group.

At Travelers, Mr. Dimon was president and chief operating officer for seven years. He was named chairman and chief executive officer of its Smith Barney Inc. subsidiary in January 1996. In November 1997, with the merger of Smith Barney and Salomon Brothers, he became co-chairman and co-chief executive officer of the combined firm. In 1998, he was named president of Citigroup Inc. In addition, he served as chairman and co-chief executive officer of Salomon Smith Barney Holdings Inc. A summa cum laude graduate of Tufts University, Mr. Dimon holds an MBA degree from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business.

It is important, as Jean Cocteau once said, not to confuse seriousness with gravity. Jamie Drake, the New York-based designer, doesn't. The man behind some of the country's most dynamic, distinctive and livable interiors knows how to create delightful environments and craft décor that is as right for a particular place as it is for the person or family occupying it. Equally comfortable in traditional and contemporary styles, he has a natural gift for making modern interiors inviting, and enlivening traditional spaces with a fresh mix of contemporary elements. Drake's device of choice is color — used boldly, fearlessly, and with great flair. Says, Drake, "there is little that doesn't inspire me."

Drake's notable residential interiors include a Los Angeles showplace for Madonna, a Martha's Vineyard vacation retreat, and a stunning Manhattan apartment for Phyllis and Victor Grann. Drake has also completed multiple projects for New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg — a client for almost 20 years — including the recent renovation and restoration of Gracie Mansion, the longtime ceremonial residence of the Mayor of New York and the redesign of various rooms at City Hall. Drake designed rooms for The Hampton Design Show House at Villa Maria and the French Design Show House, among others. His work has been widely published in leading journals, including Architectural Digest, Elle Decor, and House Beautiful. Drake has also appeared on Bloomberg TV, CNN's "Style with Elsa Klensch" and HGTV.

Eugene Grin, through the Grin Family Foundation, operates a fast growing, self-directed not-for-profit organization to provide direct support to people who fall outside of the assistance umbrella of conventional charitable programs. Eugene's background would easily have qualified him to receive charitable support and not to be providing it. Born in Kiev to World War II survivors, he grew up on the street with no money, limited education and virtually no chance to escape a dark life of poverty, alcoholism and an early mortality.

In a series of remarkable events, as a young man he was suddenly able to come to the United States. After sweeping floors in a fast food outlet and selling vacuum cleaners door-to-door, he continued to find ways to advance himself. He is today the founder and fund manager of the US$1 billion-plus Laurus Family of Funds (www.laurusfunds.com), one of the world's top performing hedge funds. And having achieved his current position, his passion for the rest of his life is to develop effective strategies to provide opportunity to young children who would otherwise be trapped without the chance to have a better life.

Mr. Grin, together with paid Grin Foundation staffers, is planting the seeds for what he plans to develop as a linked global community of full-time development and enrichment programs for children of extreme poverty.

Nancy Lublin is chief executive officer of Do Something, a non-profit organization that provides inspiration and opportunities for young people to improve their communities. Lublin founded Dress for Success in 1996 with a US$5,000 inheritance from her great-grandfather. Lublin was a law student and new to New York City, so she turned to some experts for help; she founded the organization with three nuns from Spanish Harlem who each ran public service programs. Together, they built Dress for Success New York into a vibrant organization that assisted women from all over greater New York City.

When women from other cities contacted Ms. Lublin about bringing Dress for Success to women in their community, she trademarked the name Dress for Success, built equity in the brand, and then licensed it to these new affiliates. By fall of 1998, there were nearly 20 Dress for Success programs and Ms. Lublin left law school to be the full-time executive director of Dress for Success Worldwide. A year later, there were nearly 50 Dress for Success affiliates in three countries. After six years, she left Dress for Success for her current position at Do Something.

Ms. Lublin received her BA from Brown University and an M.Litt. from Oxford University where she was a Marshall Scholar. She also earned a law degree at NYU. She is a board member of the Non Profit Coordinating Committee and America's Charities.

Yvette Rugasaguhunga was born in 1980 in Kigali, Rwanda. The eighth child, her birth was welcomed by her very large and caring Roman Catholic family. On her first day of elementary school, Yvette was asked her ethnic group. When she said she did not know, this became her first homework assignment. The following day she reported that she was a Tutsi. It was not until later that she understood the true meaning of her ethnicity.

Yvette graduated from elementary school and in 1993 was the first in her family to be admitted to a public high school. By then, the open discrimination against Tutsi was rampant, and many Tutsi were being killed or incarcerated without justice.

In 1994, Tutsi lived amidst genocide in a hundred days of horror beyond bearing murder, abduction and rape. More than one million Tutsi were murdered in 100 days and survivors lived in fear, hopelessness and despair. After Yvette almost witnessed the brutal death of her father, she watched in vain as her older brother, Rambert was slaughtered. His valiant fight for survival gave her the strength to fight for her own life. She ultimately graduated from high school and went on to college. In 2004, she left Rwanda for the USA. After realizing there are many who still deny that genocide occurred in Rwanda, she has dedicated her life to speaking out. Yvette now lives in New York and is a junior at Manhattanville College.

Eliot Spitzer took the office of New York State Attorney General in 1999 and through a series of innovative actions has redefined the role of Attorney General. He investigated conflicts of interest by investment banks, illegal trading practices by mutual funds and bid rigging in the insurance industry. He has recovered billions of dollars for small investors and other consumers in these cases and was the catalyst for industry-wide reforms. Attorney General Spitzer has acted to stop fraud in the marketplace, to level the playing field for honest businesses and to help restore confidence in the markets. As a result of these and other actions, he was named "Crusader of the Year" by Time magazine and the "Sheriff of Wall Street" by "60 Minutes." The title that most accurately reflects his role is "the People's Lawyer." The cases that mean the most to him are his pioneering labor rights cases to ensure the minimum wage and decent working conditions for immigrants and other low-wage workers in service industries.

He began his career as a clerk to US District Court Judge Robert W. Sweet and later served as an Assistant District Attorney in Manhattan. He also spent time in private practice with Paul Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison; Skadden Arps, Slate, Meagher and Flom; and Constantine & Partners. He is a graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Law School, where he was an editor of the Harvard Law Review.

John Tauranac writes on New York history and architecture, he teaches the subject, and he designs maps. Mr. Tauranac's first maps were New York Magazine's "Undercover Maps," which showed how to navigate passageways through and under buildings in Midtown and Lower Manhattan. Maintaining his mole's eye perspective, he was the chief designer of the official New York City Subway Map in 1979, and he has gone on to design dozens of other transit and street maps. Ever the tinkerer, he has just come out with a new New York City subway system published under the Tauranac imprint. Articles under his byline have appeared in The New York Times, New York Magazine, Travel & Leisure, The Wall Street Journal, and other publications. His books include The Empire State Building: The Making of a Landmark, Elegant New York, The View From the 86th Floor and New York From the Air.

A graduate of Columbia University and New York University, Mr. Tauranac teaches New York history and architecture at NYU's School of Continuing & Professional Studies, which presented him with an award for teaching excellence in 2006. Other kudos include a commendation for design excellence from the National Endowment for the Arts and the U.S. Department of Transportation, and he was named a Centennial Historian of the City of New York by the Mayor's Office for his work in history.

Morning Workouts in Central Park
Monday, 11 September
6:00-8:00am

Get ready, get set, go exercise with Adam Waxman, founder of Fitness One Training! Bring tennis shoes, workout clothes and energy for a daily morning workout with one of New York's top trainers. Sessions will be specifically designed for people at every level, so just bring your enthusiasm.

Adam has been a professional personal trainer for more than 15 years, specializing in programs that combine lactic acid core, interval, boxing, endurance, strength and power techniques that leave clients with an overall body workout developing muscle tone, cardiac capacity and balance stability, while reducing body fat. His private clients have included supermodels Carolyn Murphy, Leticia Casta and Kylie Bax, Revlon Cover Girl Lana Ogilvie, Magician David Blaine and political activist Waris Dirie. He has been a consultant to several top modeling agencies, working with them to train Kate Moss, Elle McPherson and Naomi Campbell. The success of his work has been proven repeatedly, including having four of his clients in the Sports Illustrated swimsuit editions.

Each morning takes you to a landmark setting in Central Park, where movies have been filmed. Today, our workout is at Central Park Reservoir used in movies such as Marathon Man and The Devil's Advocate.

SPECIAL NOTE: Adam is a licensed medical massage therapist. He incorporates deep tissue myofascial trigger point release work to decrease recoup oratory time while increasing range of motion and improving blood circulation with these techniques. Contact Adam directly at adamwaxman@nyc.rr.com for private massage therapy sessions during the University, schedule permitting.

OFF-SITE: Greenwich Village and The White Horse Tavern
Monday, 11 September
12:45-5:15pm

Lunch in the back room of a notorious speakeasy and take a walking tour of the Village. Greenwich Village is not only a physical place, but a full strength slice of a New York state of mind. To see it on foot is to experience its scale and texture. The setting for "Rent" is a close neighbor to the backdrop of "Barefoot in the Park." The Sullivan Street Theatre, home to "The Fantasticks," the world's longest-running musical, is but one of many off-Broadway playhouses in the neighborhood, including The Public Theatre, which first showcased "A Chorus Line" and "Hair." Just around the corner is the site of the Fillmore East, the '60s hippie hangout for the music of peace and love. And together with these artistic settings were some very tough places, including the Five Points section, as told in the story of "Gangs of New York" and the area on the waterfront, home of the notorious "Westies Gang." Hosting us for the start of our Village experience is Jimmy Munson, proprietor of the legendary 125 year-old White Horse Tavern, famous first for its roots as the Westies clubhouse and later for hard-drinking literati and culture icons it attracted, including Jack Kerouac, Norman Mailer, Andy Warhol, Anais Nin and most famously Dylan Thomas, who died at the bar there after 18 shots of straight whiskey. John Belushi of "Saturday Night Live" fame spent so much time at The White Horse that on the night he died, his "Blues Brothers" partner Dan Akyroyd walked in, shut the doors and bought drinks for the entire bar. Jimmy will share burgers, beer and stories with us from the history of the tavern. We'll then set off on foot to experience the heart of this extraordinary neighborhood

OFF-SITE: The House that Ruth Built - Yankee Stadium
Monday, 11 September
1:15-3:45pm

Home to the world's greatest baseball team (frequently), Yankee Stadium is a place of lore and legend. Stand on the field where baseball immortals Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle played and you'll channel the energies of current stars like Derek Jeter, Jason Giambi and Bernie Williams. Sit in the dugout where so many Yankee managers (sometimes the same guy hired, fired and rehired!) set the team lineup. And visit the most legendary area in professional sports, the Stadium's Monument Park, deep in left-center field, where retired numbers, plaques and monuments attest to the champions who have driven the Bronx Bombers to their record 26 championships. You'll be steeped in the mystique and aura of this superlative team and the men in pinstripes who regularly wrote and rewrote the record books on sports excellence. We'll ride the subway there (if you haven't been on a New York City subway recently, be prepared to be pleasantly surprised) and see what goes on behind the scenes at the place where the fictional George Constanza from "Seinfeld" worked, and where the very real George Steinbrenner (from Tampa) still works to make the Yankees New York's favorite team.

OFF-SITE: The Cloisters - A Renaissance Fantasy

Monday, 11 September

1:30-5:00pm

Spend an enchanting afternoon at The Cloisters, the Metropolitan Museum of Art's jewel of medieval and renaissance art set in a brilliant period garden in Fort Tryon Park at the northern tip of Manhattan. We've been invited to a private tour of the Cloisters as the personal guest of its chief curator, the prominent art scholar Peter Barnet. This world-renowned collection is devoted to European art and architecture including sculpture, tapestries, illuminated manuscripts, the crafts of goldsmiths and silversmiths, stained glass and enamels. Visiting the Cloisters is one of the absolutely great New York experiences — it's in the city, but occupies a space that existed centuries earlier. During our CEOers-only visit we'll have the Museum to ourselves, much as a medieval cloister felt to its occupants in the Middle Ages. When New Yorkers are asked what makes our town so special, the list of answers is long, but the Cloisters is regularly on it.

The American Museum of Natural History

Monday, 11 September

1:45-5:30pm

There is no human enterprise that can shock and enlighten us — and change our sense of self and the universe — like scientific discovery. The American Museum of Natural History is not just a premier institution for the display of the results of this quest, but at its core is an incubator for its genesis. As the guests of Museum Director Ellen Futter, our visit to the Museum will provide an intimate introduction to this legendary facility.

At the Rose Center for Earth and Space, an ultra modern glass cube that looks as much science fiction as science fact, we'll experience a thrilling journey from the outer reaches of the universe to the inner workings of the Earth, including a history of the universe from the Big Bang to now, narrated by Jodi Foster. From there, we'll see the Tom Hanks-narrated "Space Show," which uses the world's largest and most powerful virtual reality simulator (matched only by NASA and the largest military research facilities), to travel to intergalactic space and then free-fall back to Earth, headlong through a black hole. From there we'll visit a live lizard exhibition that's the subject of ongoing museum research and meet with Director Futter to learn more about her work running the Natural History Museum.

Trapeze in the City

Monday, 11 September

1:45-5:30pm

Join us on a flight through the air with great ease. Trapeze School New York, set in Chelsea on the banks of the Hudson River, is your opportunity first to see how aerial gymnasts perform, then to do it yourself — all while taking in stunning river views down to Wall Street and up to the George Washington Bridge. TSNY became known globally after the HBO television "Sex in the City" episode titled "The Catch," when Carrie Bradshaw (Sarah Jessica Parker) overcame her fear of flying, climbed the TSNY ladder, grabbed the bar and took off. This sensational activity and its spectacular setting have caused TSNY to be named by Travel & Leisure magazine as one of the "50 Great American Adventures." TSNY has been visited by scores of other celebrities and news reporters from around the world, including Al Roker ("The Today Show"), Kelly Ripa ("Live with Regis and Kelly") and Tony Danza ("The Tony Danza Show"), each of whom has had her or his turn on the trapeze. Now it's your turn.

Monday, 11 September

2:00-5:00pm

New York has long been the art capital of the world. Have you ever wondered where all that art goes? Come visit some great personal collections in some of New York's finest "castles in the sky." What do Bill Mack, chairman of the Guggenheim or Leonard Lauder, chairman of the Whitney, have on view in their homes? Tom Lee may have a different aesthetic from Laurie Tisch: but be assured they're both worth seeing. We have gained access to 12 of New York's finest private art collections. Join one of our four tours scheduled throughout the week in which you'll see three of these personal expressions of taste in their own natural setting.

OFF-SITE: I'll Take Manhattan

Monday, 11 September

2:00-5:00pm

The finest properties money can buy! New York is a real estate crazed town, and Sharon Baum, director of the Exclusive Properties Division of The Corcoran Group, is the city's leading broker for the most exclusive residential properties in the city. Sharon was in the first class of women at the Harvard Business School and after a career at Lehman Brothers, left to sell high-end homes. She's sold over US$1 billion of properties and has twice won the influential New York Real Estate Board's Deal of the Year award. Sharon has been recognized by New York Magazine as one of the city's most influential power brokers. She'll give us her expert views on New York real estate and take us on-site to view some of the city's most expensive properties and meet the developers creating them.

OFF-SITE: The Bling Thing - Wholesale!

Monday, 11 September

2:00-5:30pm

For people familiar with buying diamonds at Harry Winston, the Diamond District on 47th Street can be a daunting experience. The quality and selection is outstanding and knowledgeable buyers purchase jewels there for significantly less than retail. At the same time, it's an aggressive place where sellers can take great advantage of the unwary. Leading us through this jungle will be Frank Pollak. Frank's family had been among the most respected dealers on 47th Street for generations, until Frank moved the business off the street, working today only with private clients and by referral. He'll take us through the booths of this storied marketplace, and tell the story of the global diamond industry. How has the end of the Soviet Union affected the market for diamonds? What about the Indian diamond market? Is there a role for branding or will diamonds always be a commodity? When is it better to buy retail? What about the growth of on-line diamond sellers? How do you know if you're getting value? Ask Frank.

OFF-SITE: Walk Central Park with the Central Park Conservancy
Monday, 11 September
2:30-5:00pm

How did 843 acres of swampy, muddy terrain become transformed into one of the world's premier public spaces? More than 150 years ago, when the visionary landscape architects Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux were entrusted with the mission of showcasing the power of nature to lift man's spirit above the drudgery of city life, did they recognize that their work would become a place that would routinely attract over 250,000 people on a nice spring weekend? And when the Park became a tired and run-down dust bowl, who would have predicted that a special public/private partnership between the City and some individuals under the not-for-profit banner of the Central Park Conservancy would not only bring the Park back, but transform it into an even better place?

The more than 26,000 trees and 275 species of birds, the ball fields and ponds, the zoo and the bridle paths are visited by 25 million people each year, for sports, concerts and quiet walks. Come see this wonderful treasure in the company of its keeper, a member of the Central Park Conservancy team. You'll learn about the challenge of maintaining the balance between active recreation and quiet contemplation, and about the care of the foliage and the wildlife. It's Central Park like you've never seen it, a behind-the-scenes tour of the management of a place that's always in full view.

with Jon Stewart

Tuesday, 12 September

4:15-7:30pm (please note late return time)

We've asked our friends at Time Warner for the opportunity to share with you the chance to go to a taping of the Emmy and Peabody Award-winning Jon Stewart Daily Show. The Daily Show takes a focused look at news, trends, pop culture, current events, politics, sports and entertainment with a point of view that is particularly attractive to New Yorkers and those who share our values. Instead of network news rating driven programs or the spinmeisters and shills of cable news, experience the energy of a comedy show unabashedly lacking in objectivity, journalistic integrity or extreme claims to complete accuracy! Jon Stewart brought down the house as the host of this year's Oscar's and we have secured tickets for a taping of his nightly news-comedy show.

We were lucky enough to obtain tickets to view Comedy Central's The Colbert Report, which made its debut in October 2005. The Colbert Report, a spin-off of The Daily Show and an American satirical television program, is hosted by Stephen Colbert.

Comedy Central describes it as, "What The Daily Show with Jon Stewart is to evening news, The Colbert Report is to personality-driven pundit shows. Colbert brings his sarcastic charm to a half-hour report, tackling the important issues of the day and telling his guests why their opinions are just plain wrong." Join us for an event that promises to be engaging and offer a humorous spin on the men and women who speculate about current events and politics.

OFF-SITE: Gracie Mansion with Political Consultant

Douglas Schoen

Tuesday, 12 September

1:15-4:45pm

Learn how Mayor Michael Bloomberg got to the Mayor's house and see where he doesn't live!

Gracie Mansion has been the official residence of the Mayor of the City of New York since the time of our beloved Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia during World War II. This late 18th century wood residence and the surrounding 11-acre Carl Schurz Park commands a promontory overlooking the open mouth of the wild current of the East River. Gracie Mansion was built for the prosperous shipping merchant Archibald Gracie. Since the 1940s, nine successive mayors and the first families of New York have taken residence here — until our current first citizen, Mayor Michael Bloomberg.

We'll see the newly renovated Mansion, including a viewing of the private bedrooms and family space never before open for public viewing. After the tour, we'll meet at the Mansion with prominent political pollster and consultant Douglas Schoen, co-founder of Penn, Schoen & Berland Associates, now a part of British advertising giant WPP Group. Doug now serves as chairman of PS&B and is also on-air as a political analyst for Fox News.

He'll talk candidly about his work electing Michael Bloomberg, a Republican Jewish billionaire from Boston who defeated a locally born Hispanic Democrat in a city whose voters are more than 50-percent minority and more than 75-percent Democratic. To do this, the Bloomberg campaign paid Doug and his firm upwards of US$10 million to develop an intensive post-9/11 psychological portrait of city voters based not on political party lines or such traditional hot buttons as race, culture or ideology, but on a unified paradigm of shared everyday interests and concerns. This profile is perhaps the most insightful portrait of the driving issues and values of the city's community that has ever been done.

OFF-SITE: Hudson River Park by Bike
Tuesday, 12 September
1:15-5:45pm

The brand new Hudson River Park is a spectacular case of New York again reinventing itself, making a bold US$330 million bet over the past six years to reclaim five miles of gritty and decaying urban blight as a glorious waterside park. The park stretches from artsy Chelsea through the now chic Meatpacking District, beside the charming West Village and past Tribeca all the way down to the tip of Wall Street. A wide, straight and flat bike path runs the length of the park, giving bicycle riders of all levels an easy ride and a terrific way to experience the entirety of this great treasure. The desire to be near this park has a significant impact on the attraction of downtown living, opening up areas for development that previously sat forgotten.

The park is a place of open sky, green shorelines and even blue water – the law establishing the park also designated the Hudson River as an estuarine sanctuary. You'll be able to experience the park's signature attractions, the 13 rebuilt piers that stretch out as much as 1,000 feet into the river, a legacy from the days when transatlantic steamships traveled to the New York harbor. The piers are islands of repose in the midst of our tumultuous city, and allow visitors to leave the urban pace behind and be surrounded by the river. Since work on the park began, it has given New Yorkers the chance to be closer to the water that surrounds us, a physical reminder that we are island people.

Among other activities, the Fed is charged with setting monetary policy, supporting financial stability at home and abroad, maintaining the electronic funds transfer system through which US$3.9 trillion passes every day and supervising the depository functions of banks throughout the nation and the New York Bank. In addition to meeting with Fed representatives and seeing all of that gold, the visit will include a tour of the Fed's exhibition of the world's most valuable coins and currency, spanning 3,000 years in the history of money. The streets of Harlem — dangerous? Not at all. Interesting? Absolutely. This vibrant and sophisticated community is now being rediscovered even by lifetime New Yorkers who had previously thought the area off-limits. They are now rushing to be a part of its reemergence. Its multi-cultural history, the fabric of its current community and the activities in which its people engage will be shared by Neil Shoemaker, a lifelong resident who shows us Harlem not as a stage set, but as his home.

OFF-SITE: Inside Art - Visit with Guggenheim

Museum Director

Tuesday, 12 September

2:00-5:00pm

This is an opportunity to see the Guggenheim as you would never otherwise be able to, and to meet and speak with one of the foremost figures in the contemporary art world. Lisa Dennison, Director of the Guggenheim Museum, will host a private tour of the museum, followed by a candid discussion about the challenges of running this renowned institution. The Guggenheim has taken on the challenge of redefining the museum in the 21st century, and it has become the first international museum, with outposts around the world, including Berlin, Las Vegas, Venice, and Bilbao, Spain.

OFF-SITE: Flight of Fancy - New York by Helicopter
Tuesday, 12 September
2:30-4:00pm

From the foot of Manhattan island at the Battery to the northern tip of Washington Heights, beside the Palisades along the Hudson River and past the reemerging centers across the shores of the East River, take it all in as you soar over the city by helicopter. See what King Kong saw from atop the Empire State Building and experience the Art Deco glamour of the top of the Chrysler Building as viewed straight on. Our common front yard, Central Park, looks very different at altitude, as does the United Nations and the suspension arches of the Brooklyn and George Washington Bridges. The entire route of the New York City Marathon will be spread out at your feet. So here's the chance to get high in a chopper and see it all in one sitting.

OFF-SITE: Smash Broadway Musical Hit “Wicked” with Producer Jon Platt
Wednesday, 13 September
11:00am-5:45pm

Broadway’s biggest blockbuster musical hit, “Wicked,” is a backstory to the beloved treasure “The Wizard of Oz,” as told through the eyes of the supposed wicked witch. It looks at an American classic in a completely new light with a powerfully strong story told with a terrific score and great staging. The show has been sold out at virtually every performance since its opening three years ago and holds the record for the highest weekly box office gross of any show in Broadway history.

OFF-SITE: “Inside the Boardroom” at Steinway
Piano (A CEO Exclusive)
Wednesday, 13 September
12:45-4:30pm

This exclusive off-site blends a unique inside look at Steinway Piano with the expertise of Harvard Business School resource, Professor Emeritus Ben Shapiro.

Since 1853, Steinway has been the world’s premier piano manufacturer. As the guests of its chief executive officer, Bruce A. Stevens, we’ll see firsthand the careful blend of highly skilled craftsmanship and virtuoso artistry that combine to create these legendary instruments. After Ben has spoken during this morning’s education session on the topic of “Attain, Sustain and Market Leadership,” describing how market leaders continue to maintain their leadership positions over extended periods, he’ll accompany the group to Steinway. Following the tour we’ll be in the Steinway boardroom with Ben and Bruce talking about how Steinway has led its market for over a century. It’s like taking the case study experience out of the classroom and into the company. For those of you who like to blend hands-on business access with “serious” Harvard-style learning, this is an exceptional opportunity.

OFF-SITE: Riker’s Island Prison Tour with Warden Peter Curcio
Wednesday, 13 September
1:45-5:30pm

A complex and fascinating place, Riker’s Island is the world’s largest penal colony. Its on-site social systems include its schools, a hospital, even its own power plant. It is located in close view of Manhattan, yet most New Yorkers wouldn’t be able to find it on a map. This is a place that regularly performs a chilling slight of hand to make people disappear — it keeps in those who want to get out, and keeps out those who want to get in. With CEO, this is your chance to cross Riker’s Island Bridge, enter the jails and safely get out. You’ll see a place that was only a few years ago one of the most violent places on the planet, and has now transformed into one of the safest. A visit to Riker’s Island will challenge your assumptions about our culture and cause you to revisit views that until now you’ve taken for granted. As guests of Warden Peter Curcio, you’ll see prisoners and be exposed to how the prison functions, and meet with the Warden and prison guards to learn about the jail from various points of view. We guarantee an experience that will stimulate you in ways that you can only appreciate after seeing it firsthand.

OFF-SITE: A Visit with Robert A.M. Stern at His Studio
Wednesday, 13 September
2:00-5:00pm

One of the world’s leading architects, Robert A.M. Stern is both an active practitioner as well as a prominent scholar in his field. He divides his time between his position as dean of the Yale School of Architecture and his 170-person architecture firm. He is also a director of the Disney Company and a prolific writer on architectural topics. His vast body of work throughout the globe spans an array from iconic post-modern shingle style mansions to the development of the new town of Celebration, Florida. The Robert A.M. Stern portfolio includes hotels, resorts, offices, libraries, museums and master plans — plus a line of furniture, carpeting and lighting. On this exclusive visit to his studio, Mr. Stern will be on hand to speak with us about his work, and as we walk through the space we’ll be treated to a display of a number of the models from his prior works as well as flat-screen CAD presentations of projects that he and his partners are currently designing.

OFF-SITE: Horseback Riding in Central Park with Claremont Stables

Wednesday, 13 September

3:00-5:00pm

Claremont Stables, since 1892 New York's premier riding academy, offers experienced riders, with at least intermediate level English riding ability, the chance to traverse the quiet and well-maintained bridle paths of Central Park, surrounded by grass and trees, but just a glance from the towering skyline of iconic skyscrapers.

The Claremont Stables are a special attraction themselves. Built in 1892 and a National Historical Site, they're in an unusual multi-story barn that houses its horses in individual stalls in the basement and on the second floor. Ramps lead to these spaces, so that riders can access their horse easily. The stables are a block and a half away from the Park, so getting there starts by riding your horse with commuter traffic on Manhattan streets. Don't worry, the horses are used to it and the chance to ride in this setting is something you could easily get used to as well.

Riding time is one hour.

OFF-SITE: Wine Tasting Lunch with James Endicott

Thursday, 14 September

12:45-3:45pm

Wine connoisseurs, food lovers and film buffs will appreciate this opportunity to share an intimate lunch in a private dining room of Robert DeNiro's storied Tribeca Grill. Still pictures from his movies grace the walls and as his personal office is just upstairs; it's even common to see him and his film business colleagues at this chic spot.

Lunch will be hosted by wine sommelier, James Endicott. James is currently the wine director at Compass restaurant which has won accolades from Wine Spectator "Best of Award of Excellence" as one of the premier wine lists in New York City in 2004, 2005 and 2006. James leads weekly tastings and has extensive experience in wine dinners and wine seminars. He has been a sommelier at some of the city's top restaurants to include, Tribeca Grill and 'Cesca.

Our chef's tasting lunch will feature paired wines in three flights, each of two wines from the "same grape — different taste." For gourmet food and vintage wine in a classic New York eatery, this will be a memorable afternoon.

OFF-SITE: Immigrant Dreams and Urban Reality
The Lower East Side
Thursday, 14 September
12:45-5:30pm

The center of the melting pot for US immigrants from the mid-1850s through the early 20th century was in the closely packed streets of the lower east side. In 1900, this was reported to be the most densely populated area on the planet. There were more Germans, Irish and Italians in these few blocks than anywhere other than their own countries. They, together with a large immigrant community of Eastern European Jews and Chinese, lived crammed into small tenement buildings, packed 10 or more to a room, often without running water. In the heart of this district we'll visit the Tenement Museum, a period tenement building from the late 1800s, filled with artifacts from the daily life of the immigrants of this period and designated as a National Historic Site.

After seeing what tenement life looked like historically, we'll take a walking tour of the area to experience its dynamism first hand. Not a period piece or a stage set, the lower east side is currently a hot bed of new, and frequently very expensive, real estate development activity. It's a great irony of Manhattan real estate that impoverished immigrants endured the hardships and deprivations of the tenements so that their children could have a better life in the green, leafy suburbs outside the city and raise their own children to have kids who are now moving back to freshly renovated Lower East Side tenements to live luxuriously in the very places that once housed their ancestors in squalor. A neighborhood still true to its ethnic roots even while caught in the crossfire of tradition and gentrification, we'll celebrate this rich gumbo of diverse ethnic cultures with stops for traditional ethnic street food, like egg rolls in Chinatown, canole next door in Little Italy and kosher knishes on Delancy Street.

OFF-SITE: Inside CNN
Thursday, 14 September
1:15-4:30pm (Group A)
2:15-5:30pm (Group B)

CNN, New York is a showcase for this global network's news reporting to more than one billion people around the world. Located in the base of CNN's parent company headquarters, the magnificent Time Warner Center, the CNN studios are home both to a display of the history of journalism as well as its future. The exclusive CEO tour will take us into the studios and the newsrooms, including the set and the control room of the daily morning news program "American Morning." We will learn about the news gathering process and the process by which an event becomes a story. We will be joined both by one of the CNN on-camera anchors, who will talk about their work in news and answer your questions about what goes on when the cameras are off, as well as by one of CNN's top executives, who will discuss with us the world behind the camera. This will be an intimate look at perhaps the most significant news broadcasting organization in the world.

OFF-SITE: Shopping in the Meat Packing District

Thursday, 14 September

1:45-5:30pm

Where do you go to shop? Between the Hudson River and the charming West Village is the industrial grit of the Meatpacking District, an area that is still home to New York's wholesale meat purveyors. But in between the sides of beef are the haunts of stylish urbanites from around the world, the area's renowned cutting edge shops, restaurants and hipster hangouts. Local CEOers are preparing a special Baedaker for this event, your own travel guide to the Meatpacking District. Some of the featured shopping venues are Stella McCartney's eponymous boutique, famous for beautifully tailored suits; The Jean Shop – the name says it all; Ten Thousand Things, known as Julia Roberts' beloved jewelry shop, and the fashionista's temple of style, Jeffery New York, a mini-department store of carefully edited fashion must-haves.

After an adventurous afternoon of shopping, we'll gather at the very special Flower Bar in Banchette & Bianca Flowers, perhaps the only club within a flower shop. We'll learn why it is rated the city's top florist when the gracious and charming Banchette treats us to a presentation on her floral design, which will be accompanied by champagne and time left over to show off our latest purchases.

OFF-SITE: A Self-Portrait of the Artist:

Jeffrey Koons at His Studio

Thursday, 14 September

2:00-4:00pm

Jeff Koons is a staple of the New York artist scene. His pieces have been exhibited throughout the world, including prominent local displays at the Guggenheim, the Museum of Modern Art and the Whitney Museum. He's also known for his public sculptures, such as Puppy, shown at Rockefeller Center in the Summer of 2000, Balloon Flower, installed in Potsdamer Platz in Berlin as part of Daimler Chrysler's permanent collection, and Split-Rocker, a piece on display at the Papal Palace in Avignon, France. His controversial art has been turning heads for over two decades, all the while causing collectors to open their checkbooks and currently pay well in excess of US$5 million for major works. This is a special opportunity to be Jeff's guest at his studio, where he'll show the pieces on which he's working and share thoughts about the process of creating these artistic statements and about his life as an artist.

OFF-SITE: Paddling to Liberty

Thursday, 14 September

2:30-5:30pm

See Manhattan by kayak. It can be easy to forget that Manhattan is an island, unless you've seen it from a seat in a kayak. It's a dramatic experience to see Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty and the tip of the island at water level, as so many immigrants have first seen the United States. We'll paddle with the currents and using two person boats it's not a difficult trip. A singular opportunity to see New York as you've never seen it before. It's good exercise, good fun and a great experience.

Approximate kayaking time is two hours.

Bill & Ruth Ann Harnisch
Social Chairs
New York, New York, USA

In 1987, New York investment manager Bill Harnisch happened to be in the tiny town of Franklin, Tennessee, checking on a company in which his firm had an interest. At one of the company's public events, a local reporter asked him a few questions about the business. The reporter, Ruth Ann Leach, wrote about him in her Nashville newspaper column, interviewed him on her radio talk show and tried to talk him into being a guest on her TV show. Instead, he talked her into a date. By the time Bill was introduced as a new member of YPO, Ruth Ann was his fiancée. Today, Bill is the chief executive and owner of Peconic Partners, a New York based investment firm. Bill has managed his long-short equity hedge fund since 1990. He is the former chief executive and chief investment officer of Forstmann Leff Associates, which he sold for the second — and final — time in 1997.

Bill was one of the first in the country to earn the chartered financial analyst designation. He currently serves on the board of the Baruch College Fund and is president of the William F. Harnisch Foundation which focuses on medical issues. He enjoys saltwater fishing and black diamond skiing.

His children are Jonathan Harnisch, a writer in Long Beach, California; and Laura Scott, a luxury travel planner in Raleigh, North Carolina. Ruth Ann Harnisch is president of the Harnisch Family Foundation, a member of the board of directors of the Sigma Delta Chi Foundation, a member of The Women Donors Network and a founder of The Foundation of Coaching. She is also a certified professional coach. Bill and Ruth Ann are active members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Hampton Bays, New York. They maintain residences in New York City; East Quogue, New York; Grand Bahama Island; Nashville, Tennessee; and Deer Valley, Utah.

Steve Hyde & Loren George
First Timer Chairs
Colorado Springs, Colorado, USA

Steve is president of Hyde Rx Services, Corp. which provides high quality, affordable prescription drug benefits to self-insured employers (www.hyderx.com). No other pharmacy benefit company offers a better or lower cost Rx benefit, due to HRx's member incentive and support program that gets them the drugs they need at the lowest possible cost.

Most of Steve's career has been in healthcare, having consulted with, regulated, started, operated, and sold HMOs back when they were universally considered to be a good thing (i.e., a LONG time ago). Steve has served on many for-profit and not-for-profit boards, generally understanding the former while admiring the latter. In between his healthcare ventures, Steve started or bought companies in food processing, fresh fruit farming and cattle ranching — and a fly-fishing resort which he and Loren still own. Some of these ventures have been successful. After one particularly disappointing failure early in his career, Steve handbuilt a log cabin in a roadless area deep in the Arkansas Ozarks and lived there for a year, dramatically reducing both his overhead and the size of his unread book stack.

Steve is married to Loren George (whom he met some years after the log cabin incident) and they have two children, Evan (born in 1988) and Erin (born in 1990). Steve enjoys traveling with his family, good food and better wines, swimming, skiing, sailing, and trying to keep up with his stack of unread books. His motto is "Never make a decision until you have to." He has an MBA from the Harvard Business School and a BA in finance from Michigan State University, and doesn't have a clear idea how he got into either.

New York, New York, USA

Please take the time to visit with Mark and Gwendolyn to learn more about them.

Miles & Marcie Stuchin
Off-Sites Chairs
New York, New York, USA

Marcie and Miles Stuchin are native New Yorkers. They co-founded Access Capital in 1986 to provide commercial finance to middle market companies. A decade later, after the company had been named to the Inc. 500 list of the fastest growing companies in the country, Marcie left the business (but not the partnership) to return to her first career in decorative and fine art. She had previously worked at the Guggenheim Museum and then became an officer of Sotheby's; more recently she's written five books that have been published on interior design and architecture throughout the world, and she runs the Chrysalis Design Group.

Miles continues to operate Access Capital, including not only its non-traditional finance operations, but also its activities in venture capital and real estate, principally Manhattan apartment buildings. He is a former Entrepreneur of the Year and vice chairman of Horace Mann School. Currently, he's a director of Newkirk Realty Trust, Inc. (NYSE:NKT) and a trustee emeritus at Horace Mann. He's also the managing member of The Rock Club, the largest indoor rock climbing facility in the East Coast. Before starting Access Capital, Miles was a partner in a New York law firm.

The Stuchins live in Manhattan and have two children who also live in New York, a son Blake, 24, and a daughter Mallory, 21. In their spare time, Marcie practices pilates and is a certified pilates instructor; Miles both climbs rocks and also plays rock guitar, appearing most recently at BB King's Blues Club in Times Square.

Donald & Alison Weiss
Pre-University Event Chairs
Short Hills, New Jersey, USA

Donald and Alison Weiss live in Short Hills, New Jersey and East Hampton, New York. They have two children, Eric, 35 and Danna 33, both of whom reside in New York City.

Since 1998, Donald has served as adjunct professor of entrepreneurship, teaching MBAs at Columbia Business School a course titled "Starting and Running an Entrepreneurial Company." He is chairman of DocuSys, a provider of hospital information systems, and owner of Self Storage Depot, White Home Products and Boright Realty. He is also a board member of Alembic Insurance, Malia Mills Swimwear, GoGolf Travel and the Cornell Entrepreneurship program.

Donald has a mechanical engineering degree from Cornell and an MBA from Columbia. His original company was White Systems, the leading manufacturer of automated retrieval systems, which he sold in 1993. At White, he was the New Jersey Entrepreneur of the Year, New Jersey Manufacturing Business Leader of the Year and was awarded the Columbia Business School Botwinick Prize for Business Ethics.

Donald and Alison enjoy travel, art, golf and their "granddogger." They were active YPOers for 20 years and are now active in CEO.

Larry & Harriet Weiss
Communications/Marketing Chairs
Rydal, Pennsylvania, USA

Harriet and Larry Weiss were high school sweethearts and married while still in college. From humble beginnings they have built a world class, direct-mail and commercial printing company. There is no doubt that their products have often filled your mailbox. Both Harriet and Larry were active members of the YPO Philadelphia Chapter and each has served as Education and Chapter Chair. Harriet and Larry feel they are better people, better parents to their two children, Mark and Fern, and better business persons because of their YPO experiences.

Today, Harriet is chief executive officer of CRW Graphics, a leading provider of ultimate quality commercial and on-demand digital printing, mailing and fulfillment services. Larry is president of Hippographics, Inc., a management company that oversees three printing enterprises.

Each has a zest for living, loves the arts, loves to travel, and finds the dessert of life is their three grandchildren. They have also enriched the lives of many through their philanthropic endeavors and leadership in the non-for-profit world. Larry has been instrumental in keeping the inner-city libraries open and bringing Chess in the Schools to Philadelphia. Both are active board participants. Presently, Larry serves on the boards of Federation Housing and WHYY public radio. Harriet presently serves as vice chair of the University of the Arts, is on the executive committee of the United Way, and is a board member of the Philadelphia Theatre Company.

They are especially excited to meet and share with all, New York, the city that helped make their dreams come true!

John & Jocelyn Barford
Toronto, Ontario, Canada

John is president of Valleydene Corporation, a private investment holding company based in Toronto. He is the former chairman of GSW Inc., which is a manufacturer of domestic and commercial water heaters.

Sales at GSW grew from CDN$200 million in 2000 to CDN$625 million in 2005. The business was sold to AO Smith Corporation at the end of the first quarter of 2006.

Earlier in his career John was engaged in the oil and gas exploration business, where he maintains an interest through his directorship at Alberta Clipper Energy Inc. in Calgary. He is also a director of UV Pure Technologies, a manufacturer of ultra violet water purification systems, a governor of Bishop Strachan School and a trustee of Trinity College School. He is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario (1978) with a BA in economics and of the OPM Program (2000) at the Harvard Business School. John became a member of YPO in 1997 and graduated in 2006.

Jocelyn is a Calgary native who worked as a landman in the oil business, where she and John met. They have been married for 22 years and have lived in Toronto since 1991. They are the proud parents of Kevin, 18; Katie, 16; Michael, 14; and Victoria, 10. Jocelyn is active in her children's schools and enjoys gourmet cooking, walking her black lab, Fergus, and playing golf and squash. The whole family enjoys spending summers at their cottage in the Muskokas and skiing vacations in Colorado.

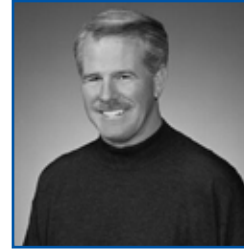

Danny & Talia Bejarano
London, England, United Kingdom

Daniel was born and raised in Israel where, after serving in the Israeli Air Force, he graduated from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem with an LLB. After receiving his MBA from INSEAD in Fontainebleau, France,

Daniel returned to Israel to run his family business, a leading citrus and other food products manufacturer. In 1977, Daniel moved to London with his family to join a large international trading group active in steel and other metals. In 1980, Daniel was appointed chief executive officer of Spartan Redheugh Ltd, an independent steel company manufacturing heavy plates. Having turned around the company, Daniel bought Spartan with institutional venture capital backing and four years later realised the investment. Since then Daniel has been active, through Bejarano Ventures Ltd, in private equity investments, specializing in manufacturing and service companies, as well as turnaround situations.

Daniel has been married to Talia for 36 years. They have three children, Karin (31) who is married and living in New Jersey raising two sons; Roy (30) who is also married with a one-year old son and lives in New York where he works as an investment banker; and Raphael (22) who is about to start working for a New York investment bank after graduating from Cambridge University last year. Talia has recently been appointed a representative to the UN on behalf of one of the non-governmental organizations she is active with. Talia and Danny spend part of their time in New York to be close to their children. The Bejarano family enjoys skiing in Switzerland and travel.

Daniel and Talia were members of the YPO for 14 years, during which they attended numerous YPO Universities and events. Daniel was active in YPO governance, having spent five years on the International Board.

Enrique & Ivette Cortes
San Juan, Puerto Rico, USA

Enrique is the president and founder of Cortes Industrial, a company involved in the repair, maintenance and sale of industrial machinery in Puerto Rico and neighboring Caribbean islands. The company was founded in 1977 with US$3,500 in savings and lots of borrowed money. Enrique says that two people had faith in him to make his dream come true; his banker and his wife, Ivette. The difference between the two is that the banker had a 90-percent guarantee from the Small Business Administration, a mortgage on the home and life insurance with the bank as beneficiary.

Ivette’s self-imposed title is “general manager” of household affairs. She raised four magnificent kids, two boys and two girls (family planning) whom are now between 26 and 35 years of age ... “we started young,” says Enrique. They also have an 8-year old granddaughter.

In the civic arena, Enrique is a past president of the Puerto Rico Manufacturers Association, while Ivette is currently very active with the Puerto Rico chapter of the Girl Scouts. Aside from their home in San Juan, they spend weekends at their beachfront property at the Palmas del Mar resort (35 minutes from home). They also love to slip away to their apartment in Manhattan and are looking forward to seeing New York from a very special perspective.

Tom & Silvia Cusick
San Antonio, Texas, USA

Tom attended the University of Texas on a baseball scholarship and majored in accounting. After a short stint in the accounting industry, Tom started his professional career in health insurance in 1975. He later formed Benefit Planners, a third party administrator (TPA) in San Antonio, Texas. Benefit Planners was ranked as one of the Top 10 National TPAs. Tom sold Benefit Planners to Fiserv, Inc. in 2001 and continued to serve as chief executive officer and contributed to their success through 2003.

Tom is now devoting most of his time to a new development, Estancia at Thunder Valley (www.estanciaboerne.com), which neighbors his Boerne, Texas Ranch where he resides with his wife, Silvia and their daughters.

Tom and Silvia have five daughters, Ginger (29), Marie (28), Jill (26), Sara (15) and Beca (12) and two grandchildren, Caleb (17 months) and Katie (1 month). While Silvia is very active with school board / functions and serves as the family travel planner, she is also very involved in Estancia's Pilates Studio, workout center, jogging / hiking trails and gymnasium, all currently under construction. Tom is active in many local and national associations which include the YPO and Pro Rodeo Cowboy's Association. He was very involved with the Society of Professional Benefit Administrators, Self Insurance Institute of America, and held all officer positions in the Central Texas YPO Chapter in addition to serving on the YPO International Board. Tom and Silvia's hobbies include mountain biking, skiing, roping steers (well, Silvia skips the horse events), jogging and hunting. The Cusick family spends their summers in Colorado at their Telluride home or Chimney Peak Ranch in Ridgway, Colorado.

Dave & Pam Duke
Englewood, Colorado, USA

Dave and Pam met at age 16 at the junior sock hop dance at Paris American High School. She wore funny shoes and he dressed like a nerd. They fell instantly in love.

Pam and Dave have two sons and one daughter, ages 30, 27, and 23. All three kids have fled God's country (Colorado) to pursue careers in California. Dave grew up as an Army brat and lived much of his early life in Europe; Pam grew up as a Marine Corps brat and wants to be (like) her Dad. Pam graduated from the University of New Hampshire and became an elementary school teacher. Dave was "educated" at West Point. Following a five-year stint in the Army Corps of Engineers, Dave got his MBA at Boston University. While living in New England, Pam and Dave spent many a day boating and skiing on Lake Winnepesaukee and training for the Boston marathon. They eventually settled in Colorado where they built a publishing business from scratch and raised their family. Currently, the empty-nested Duke's live between their Denver home, a wonderful old lake house in Loveland, and a mountain home in Vail. Having three homes within a three-hour drive of each other seems to have finally satisfied Dave's material desires.

Dave launched Duke Communications, a computer magazine publishing company, in 1982, grew it into an international tour-de-force (with a lot of help from employees), and sold the company in September 2000. Today, life is immensely interesting and fun — helping the kids with their many endeavors, studying French, traveling from one Four Seasons hotel to another, snow skiing, chipping away at a stubborn golf handicap, helping aging parents and doting on grandbaby Audrey. Dave loves classical music and serves on the Colorado Symphony board. Pam as always, is active in Colorado philanthropy. Both are currently helping build the new Immanuel Lutheran School in Loveland, Colorado.

Please take the time to visit with Hap and Meg to learn more about them.

Chuck & Debbie Frank

Northbrook, Illinois, USA

Chuck and Debbie grew up in the suburbs north of Chicago. Chuck attended The George Washington University and earned a BA in English and then went on to the University of Chicago for his MBA. Debbie graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a teaching degree. They have three daughters ages 16, 23 and 25 and a son, 20. After a short teaching career, Debbie focused on bringing up the kids, volunteering at school, and now is very actively involved in fundraising for medical research at Chicago's Children's Memorial Hospital. Chuck joined the family business. He has been a car dealer since 1982 holding franchises for Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Hyundai, Subaru, Mazda, VW and Kia. Chuck currently has a Chevrolet and Kia franchise in the City of Chicago. He has previously owned, operated and sold an automotive leasing business and rental business. He also manages a portfolio of commercial real estate partnerships. Chuck has been actively involved in non-profit organizations for over 30 years. He is on the board of directors of the Jewish Community Centers of Chicago, where he is vice president. He is also a member of many environmental groups and is a member of the Sierra Club Foundation Board of Trustees. He is also a member of the YMCA of Metro Chicago board of trustees. Debbie and Chuck love to travel, work out, fish, read and spend time with the kids.

Bill & Ruth Ann Harnisch

New York, New York, USA

In 1987, New York investment manager Bill Harnisch happened to be in the tiny town of Franklin, Tennessee, checking on a company in which his firm had an interest. At one of the company’s public events, a local reporter asked him a few questions about the business. The reporter, Ruth Ann Leach, wrote about him in her Nashville newspaper column, interviewed him on her radio talk show and tried to talk him into being a guest on her TV show. Instead, he talked her into a date. By the time Bill was introduced as a new member of YPO, Ruth Ann was his fiancée. Today, Bill is the chief executive and owner of Peconic Partners, a New York-based investment firm. Bill has managed his long-short equity hedge fund since 1990. He is the former chief executive of Forstmann Leff Associates, which he sold for the second — and final — time in 1997.

Bill was one of the first in the country to earn the chartered financial analyst designation. He currently serves on the board of the Baruch College Fund and is president of the William F. Harnisch Foundation which focuses on medical issues. He enjoys saltwater fishing and black diamond skiing. His children are Jonathan Harnisch, a writer in Long Beach, California; and Laura Scott, a luxury travel planner in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Ruth Ann Harnisch is president of the Harnisch Family Foundation, a member of the board of directors of the Sigma Delta Chi Foundation, a member of The Women Donors Network and a founder of The Foundation of Coaching. She is also a certified professional coach. Bill and Ruth Ann are active members of St. Mary’s Episcopal Church in Hampton Bays, New York. They maintain residences in New York City; East Quogue, New York; Grand Bahama Island; Nashville, Tennessee; and Deer Valley, Utah.

The Lloyds enjoy family, friends, travel, hiking, skiing and soccer. They are actively involved on many local charitable boards including hospitals and colleges.

Carol graduated from Stanford University and Brent graduated from the University of California. Both hold juris doctor degrees from the University of Idaho.

Since 1990, Brent has been the chief executive of Futura Corporation, a family-owned holding company whose subsidiaries manufacture aluminum extrusions, outdoor electrical signs and recreational vehicle parts. Futura's service businesses include title and escrow operations in the Pacific Northwest and backcountry operations on the Salmon River.

Dickie & Cheri Longoria
Laredo, Texas, USA

Dickie is part of the baby boomer generation of the Longoria family, a banking dynasty and the most important clan on both sides of the Rio Grande. Dickie's roots are in Mexico, but he has become a loyal Texan as well. Dickie started doing business in south Texas and the northern part of Mexico more than 30 years ago. Back then, most of his business interests were located in Northern Mexico. In 1978, he ventured into the US market and founded Exelco, Inc. Exelco, Inc. is a Texas corporation that is diversified with several partnerships and subsidiaries in fields ranging from real estate to the Wendy's franchisee in South Texas. In Mexico, he controls 100 percent of Grupo Loder de Mexico, which houses three operative divisions and one real state, with more than 4,000 employees and annual gross sales close to US$200 million. The food division owns and operates Church's Chicken Master franchise.

Dickie has a BBA from St. Mary's University. He took various graduate banking and advanced management seminars and programs at Harvard University and IMEDE in Lausanne, Switzerland. The Laredo Chamber of Commerce honored him as the 2001 Laredo Business Person of the Year. Dickie is a consummate hunter whose Alaska Brown Bear trophy is in the 2001 Boone and Crockett Club records of North American Big Game.

His wife, Cheri is an avid reader who loves and collects antiques. Cheri also loves Mexican art of which she has a great collection. Dickie and Cheri married in 1972 and have three children, two boys and one girl who are fully involved in the family business. Together they spend much time in their stunning hacienda-type home in Mexico.

Mark Myers & Gwen Salem

New York, New York, USA

Please take the time to visit with Mark and Gwendolyn to learn more about them.

Michael & Michelle Osterman

Boulder, Colorado, USA

Michael and Michelle met at the University of Arizona in 1976 and were married five years later. Michelle worked in the field of special education until 1985 and then focused full-time on raising two sons, Matthew and Jordan.

Michael started a promotional marketing company out of college which evolved into Osterman API with annual revenues of US$55 million. He sold the company to Boise Cascade Office Products in 1997. After spending 547 days, three hours, and two minutes as the president of Boise Marketing Services, Michael retired from the conventional business world.

Since that time, both Michael and Michelle have kept active with their children, travel, recreation and numerous volunteer positions. Today, Michael and Michelle are very involved in philanthropic enterprises and Michael sits on a few non-profit boards. Their primary residence is in Boulder, Colorado, but they also spend considerable time at their second home in Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

Jay & Debra Platt

Beaverton, Oregon, USA

Jay Platt is president of Platt Electric Supply, a family-owned distributor of electrical, industrial, datacom and utility tools and related products. Platt has 91 locations in six states in the western USA and employs over 900 people and services 25,000 customers. Platt is one of the largest US independent electrical distributors. For more than 30 years, Jay has held most every position at Platt, working his way through the ranks up to president in 1987.

Jay and his wife, Debra have two daughters age 13 and 14, and a son age 16. They refer to them as "nice, normal YPO kids who have been molded by some amazing experiences and relationships, as well as their normal parents who help keep them grounded." Jay's interests are sailing, skiing, biking, hiking, photography, computers, bio-technology and his kids. Debra's interests are traveling, cooking, skiing, golf, hiking, biking, reading and raising a great family.

The family spends most of their free time traveling to exotic destinations around the world and like to mix education with adventure and exercise: "Sometimes we hit it on the nose and other times it can be a bust.... that is life!"

Their life philosophy is a positive one they would like to share with fellow New York University attendees: "We are really blessed in every aspect of our life, we think of ourselves as very normal grounded people who put their pants on one leg at a time ... and try everyday to enjoy life to the fullest! ... And by the way, those 900 people who work within Platt everyday, they are very special to us. We would not be in New York with you without their hard work and support.

David Shaw & Glenn Close

New York, New York, USA

David Shaw's career has combined business leadership, government and community service, strategy consulting and investment management. He is the founder and retired chief executive of IDEXX Laboratories, Inc., a publicly-held biotechnology, medical device and software company with annual revenues of more than US$600 million and 3,000 employees worldwide. He has also been a founding investor and/or director of other successful high technology companies including Cytoc Corporation, Exact Sciences, Skinetics, Cambria, Microbia, Ikaria, National Medical Health Card, Magen BioSciences and others.

Recently he has served on the faculty of Harvard's John F. Kennedy School of Government and the advisory board of the school's Center for Public Leadership. He has been chair of The Jackson Laboratory, a leading non-profit genetics research institute, a member of the executive committee of the US-Israel Science and Technology Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations, and a trustee of Maine Medical Center, Hurricane Island Outward Bound and other non-profits. He serves as managing partner of Black Point Group, a private investment partnership, and is affiliated with Venrock Associates (venture capital) and New Mountain Capital LLC (private equity), both based in New York City.

David is married to actress/producer Glenn Close, and they have four children from previous marriages.

Miles & Marcie Stuchin

New York, New York, USA

Marcie and Miles Stuchin are native New Yorkers. They co-founded Access Capital in 1986 to provide commercial finance to middle market companies. A decade later, after the company had been named to the

Inc. 500 list of the fastest-growing companies in the country, Marcie left the business (but not the partnership) to return to her first career in decorative and fine art. She had previously worked at the Guggenheim Museum and then became an officer of Sotheby's; more recently she's written five books that have been published on interior design and architecture throughout the world, and she runs the Chrysalis Design Group.

Miles continues to operate Access Capital, including not only its non-traditional finance operations, but also its activities in venture capital and real estate, principally Manhattan apartment buildings. He is a former Entrepreneur of the Year and vice chairman of Horace Mann School. Currently, he's a director of Newkirk Realty Trust, Inc. (NYSE:NKT) and a trustee emeritus at Horace Mann. He's also the managing member of The Rock Club, the largest indoor rock climbing facility in the East Coast. Before starting Access Capital, Miles was a partner in a New York law firm.

The Stuchins live in Manhattan and have two children who also live in New York, a son Blake, 24, and a daughter Mallory, 21. In their spare time, Marcie practices pilates and is a certified pilates instructor; Miles both climbs rocks and also plays rock guitar, appearing most recently at BB King's Blues Club in Times Square.

Dennis & Betty Sun
Hong Kong, China

Dennis T.L. Sun is the chairman and managing director of China-Hongkong Photo Products Holdings Limited and responsible for the overall management and strategic business development of the Group. He joined the management team of the Group in 1976 and has 29 years experience in the photographic products industry.

Within the photographic industry, Dennis is the honorary chairman and chairman of the executive committee of the Hong Kong Photo Marketing Association and is the Life Honorary Advisor of the Photographic Society of Hong Kong. The company has four business structures: a sporting goods division, automotive parts division, medical products division, and industrial products division.

Tommy and Moochi have been married 36 years and have three children, Fumiko (34), Yukiko (32) and Kiyofumi (31). Since Molten Corporation has 15 overseas locations, Tommy is often abroad on business. He enjoys golf, gardening, and karaoke, and understanding world history by actually visiting places. Moochi is a licensed tax accountant and president and chief executive officer of Brookmin Inc. She enjoys reading and horse riding.

Tommy also serves as chairman of the Hiroshima YMCA, as a director of World Sporting Goods Industries Federation, as president of Japan Sporting Goods Industries Cooperative Association, as Special Visiting Professor at Hiroshima University of Economics, and as president of JETRO HIROSHIMA. He has received awards including the Minister of Education Commendation (a medal for distinguished service in education), the Blue Ribbon Medal and the Order of Merit of Federation of the International Basketball Association.

Pim & Rietje van Agtmael
Stuttgart, Germany

Pim van Agtmael is chief executive officer of E. Breuninger GmbH & Co. Stuttgart, one of the leading department stores in Germany. The company was founded in 1881 and is still a privately held company.

Pim joined the Breuninger Group in 1973 after leaving the international Holiday Inn chain. He has been the chief executive officer of Breuninger since 1980. Breuninger is an upscale fashion department store carrying all the well-renowned international top brands. The main geographical focus of the Breuninger stores is on the southern and eastern part of Germany where they expand with standalone department stores. The company also owns and operates two large scale shopping malls. Pim is dedicated to providing Breuninger customers with top quality merchandise and is always travelling to seek new opportunities for partnerships and ideas. The Breuninger Group employs almost 4,500 people and generates revenues of about €550 million annually.

Pim and Rietje were born in the Netherlands, where they met at the hotel school in The Hague and received bachelor's degrees in hospitality management. Rietje runs the family office and Pim serves on the board of several organizations and public companies. They have been married 35 years and have three great children. Their son Jeroen is married and lives in the USA, where he and his wife have a little daughter. Jeroen manages his own company in Texas. Their daughter Claire has recently married. She and her husband have a successful career with Breuninger. Their daughter Maaïke is finishing her studies at the Erasmus University in Holland. As a family they enjoy travelling together in foreign countries, and in the summer you will always find them at their home on Corsica, where they all like boating and watersports. Pim also enjoys flying as a pilot.

Ron Weinberg & Terri Bell
Cleveland, Ohio, USA

Ron is chairman of the board and chief executive of Hawk Corporation. Headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, Hawk is a worldwide manufacturer of friction products (brake pads), powdered metal precision components and high-end motorsports components. The company has 15 facilities, of which four are outside the United States.

Ron is an entrepreneur with other investment interests. He is the chairman of New Channel Communications Corp., a company based in Hinckley, Ohio specializing in direct mail services, and a principal of Weinberg & Bell, a corporate buyout firm.

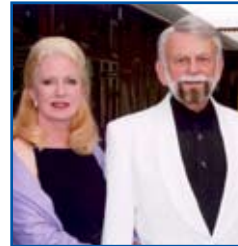

His fiancée, Terri Bell, also lives and works in the Cleveland area. Terri is vice president of Special Projects at IMG, the sports management firm, and handles sponsorships and production of events for the firm's clients.

Ron has diverse civic and recreational interests. He is vice-chair of the board of Cleveland State University, appointed by Ohio Governor Bob Taft, and serves on the board of directors of the US Chamber of Commerce. He is a regular jogger and irregular golfer.

Ron was born in 1941. He graduated from Harvard College with his AB degree in science in 1963 and received his MBA from Harvard Business School in 1965.
